Assignment 43XX: Myers-Briggs Personality Survey

Often our personalities and learning styles will affect the way our brains receive and process information. We are going to survey the group to see how the class compares to the national distribution. Before you begin answering the questions, be sure that you decide whether you are going to answer the questions with your "work self" or your "personal self" in mind. I know that there are some things that are OK in my personal interactions that would be different in a work setting.

After you have taken the survey, you will get a combination of four letters. Submit these four letters, your name, and your section number. I will tally the results and post them for the class.
